

TOWNS SHOULD SHARE BURDEN

In Care of Idiotic, Feeble-Minded and Epileptic Persons
Says Hartness

VETOES MEASURES FOR STATE SUPPORT

Proposes to Keep Down Expenses of Growing Department

Governor Hartness yesterday afternoon, vetoed Senate bill No. 85, providing that the state shall take over from the towns the burden of caring for idiotic, feeble-minded or epileptic persons. In presenting his veto, Governor Hartness wrote:

"The towns and cities of the state should be partners with the state in looking after the care of our idiotic, feeble-minded and epileptic persons. This bill wholly relieves towns and cities of responsibility for the care of such unfortunate persons when placed in a state institution. In my judgment this is not wise. This class of persons far exceeds the deaf, dumb and blind. To relieve towns wholly of obligation to care for such persons as public charges casts upon the state a greater burden than it should be expected to bear. As the law now exists, a town may be required to bind itself to indemnify the state against expenses which may accrue in consequence of the sickness, clothing and transportation of idiotic, feeble-minded and epileptic persons, before the state assumes the burden of their care. This is a just and reasonable provision.

"The decision of the officials of towns or cities to furnish bonds when required, as a prerequisite to assuming the care of these unfortunate persons on the part of the state, is in many instances sufficient warrant for relieving the towns of their care. Without such co-operation of the town and city authorities, it will become necessary in many instances, in investigation of cases, to expend in the aggregate a considerable portion of the appropriations available for the support of these persons in state institutions.

"Unless the towns are willing to bear the smaller portion of expenses, which now averages about thirty-five dollars per year for each inmate of our school at Brandon, it will be necessary for the state to provide an additional biennial appropriation of from ten to fifteen thousand dollars. This additional appropriation will be but the beginning of the creation of an expensive department, requiring numerous assistants to investigate the merits of each case presented. Operating under the law as it now exists, the governor is enabled through co-operation with the local authorities, to get first-hand, accurate and reliable information upon which to base a decision

That Tired Feeling

Is Just As Much A Warning as "Stop, Look and Listen." It indicates run-down conditions and means that you must purify your blood, renew your strength, tone and your "power of resistance," or be in great danger of serious illness, the grip, flu, fever, contagious and infectious diseases. Do not make light of it. It is serious. Give it attention at once. Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla. He knows this good as to whether the state should assume the care of applicants." Following the refusal of the House to pass over the governor's veto yesterday morning H. 360, enabling minors to contract for and surrender insurance policies, by the overwhelming vote of 165 to four, the Senate yesterday afternoon took as wide a tack in the opposite direction, passing over the Governor Hartness' veto S. 22, the homestead bill, by a vote of 23 to five, and S. 23, relating to surviving husband's interest in his deceased wife's estate, by a unanimous vote.

The four men in the House who voted in favor of passing H. 360 over the governor's veto were Messrs. Dorey of Rutland City, Foote of West Haven, Johnson of West Fairlee and Wade of Dorset.

Senators Andrews, Bryant, Clark, Newton and Taylor were the five senators to support the governor's veto of S. 22, and the 23 who voted to pass the bill over the veto were Messrs. Dorey of Rutland City, Foote of West Haven, Johnson of West Fairlee and Wade of Dorset.

which was killed the early part of the week, was reconsidered Thursday on motion of Mr. Stearns and made a special order for to-day. After Mr. Stearns had explained it, the House ordered it to a third reading and, on motion of Mr. Noble of West Rutland, the rules were suspended by a vote of 123 to seven, and the bill was passed.

In speaking on this bill, Mr. Stearns said that in traveling about the state in connection with the educational question, he had found no part of the school system was causing more fault finding than the supervision. He explained that the bill called for 14 supervisors in place of the 66 which have been working in the state during the past year, and for the redistricting of the supervising districts by counties. He said that while the state board of education has been spending approximately $136,000 for supervision during the past year, without, in his opinion, doing the state value received, his plan would call for an appropriation of only $85,000, which would give the 14 supervisors a salary of $3,000 apiece, and would provide for 30 women assistants at $1,800. The bill provides that the salary of the women helpers shall be fixed by the board of education.

Mr. Stearns wanted it understood that he was not saying that there are not good supervisors in Vermont, for he knew that there are, but there are altogether too many poor ones. He thought that it would be possible to get 14 good ones out of the 66 now working for the state board.

Mr. Stearns quoted one of the supervisors in the southern part of the state as saying: "As far as I am concerned, I am going to look for another job, for I know that this supervision has got to go some time, for it is a dis-farce. Women helpers in the various districts is not a new thing, Mr. Stearns explained, as Mr. Hunt, "one of the conscientious supervisors" in the state, had been using them in the Swanton district with good results.

Winouski Charter Advances. The bill incorporating the city of Winouski and establishing a new town of Colechester (H. 406) passed the Senate yesterday without difficulty. It goes to the governor for his signature.

Another educational measure (H. 232), relating to the issuance by school directors of permits to teach, passed the Senate yesterday, with proposals of amendment which would restrict the entire bill, placing certain new restrictions on the teachers hired and giving the state board of education the power to prescribe examinations which applicants to teach must pass.

There was considerable debate in the Senate yesterday on S. 110, providing that the governor shall not issue pardon to any person imprisoned in state prison before the expiration of the minimum sentence until he has conferred with the attorney general or the state's attorney of the county where sentence was imposed. The bill finally amended as to wording, as offered by Senator Williams, and ordered to a third reading.

Conference Committee on H. 98. Speaker Billings has appointed as the members from the House on conference for H. 98, the teacher training bill (sometimes known as the Stearns bill): Mr. Stearns of Johnson, Mr. Darling of Chelsea and Mr. Bailey of Colchester. The Senate committee has not yet been announced.

There was a lively debate in the House on a motion to reconsider H. 152, providing that shall be responsible for the acts of their agents. The bill was on the calendar as a special order yesterday afternoon. Mr. Barber of Brattleboro moved that it be further ordered to lie and be taken up at the end of the calendar, but the motion was lost, and the bill was passed.

Mr. Chase of Bennington, in order to clinch the passage, moved for reconsideration, with the hope that it would not be reconsidered, but Mr. Cushman of Rochester took the opportunity to oppose the measure and declared that the bill is unconstitutional in his judgment. Mr. Chase replied that so good an authority as Judge Harland B. Howe of the United States court had favored the bill and had said that the law of contracts was not impaired by its provisions, as Mr. Cushman had claimed.

In reply to this Mr. Cushman said: "With all the respect I have for the courts of this country and for the men who wear the ermine, when any man stands up and attempts to limit the law of contracts, it is not unlikely that he may have imbibed his idea of law from Thomas Jefferson rather than from that great jurist, Alexander Hamilton."

Mr. Dorsey of Rutland City also opposed the bill, declaring that it was unfair to insurance companies. Mr. Barber of Brattleboro spoke at some length in opposition, maintaining that this measure would tend to put oral contracts on a par with written contracts, something in which he did not believe. Mr. Barber failed to get the measure laid over until next Tuesday morning.

Mr. Simpson of Sheffield opposed the bill, as did Mr. Luce of Pomfret. But Mr. Darling of Ryegate, Mr. Bailey of Colchester and Mr. Bryant of Troy defended the measure and opposed reconsideration. Mr. Darling of Ryegate moved that debate cease, and reconsideration was refused.

Homelessness. Bridget was suffering from nostalgia.

"You ought to be contented and not pine for your old home, Bridget," said her mistress. "You are earning good wages, your work is light, everyone is kind to you and you have lots of friends here."

THE MAN WHO KNEW AND WHAT CAME OF IT

We knew a man with an automobile, who said he was a careful driver

AND HE WAS!

He said he would never injure anyone

AND HE DIDN'T!

He said: "If anything happens, it will be the other fellow's fault!"

AND IT WAS!

That didn't prevent the other fellow from demanding money

AND HE DID!

Our man said: "It's not my fault; I'll not pay anything!"

AND HE DIDN'T!

The other chap said: "TILL SUE YOU"

AND HE DID!

Our friend's lawyer said: "We can beat him in court!"

AND THEY DID!

Whereupon our friend said: "Ha, Ha, I win!"

AND THEN

He paid his lawyer a fee of $100.00, plus expenses, and ran his car the rest of the year at his own risk.

FOOLISH—WASN'T HE?

There was a cheaper way out, and we had told him about it, but he thought he knew better.

Let us tell you how little it will cost for COMPLETE PROTECTION, we to furnish the lawyer, investigate all claims, defend all suits, and pay all losses within the limit of our policy.

FOR years the demand for Buick cars has always exceeded the supply—even when Buick production mounted to 500 cars daily.

Because of the material curtailment of motor car production this winter, the country faces a decided shortage of quality cars this spring and summer.

Consequently Buick dealers are advising motorists to place their Buick orders now because orders must be sent to factory months in advance of delivery. The reason why the demand for Buick cars has always exceeded the supply is more pronounced than ever in the 1921 Buick. Coupled with the noted Buick power and dependability are added riding comfort, easier control and a beauty and grace that fittingly express Buick worth.
